Administrative/Biographical History

Brief History of the Park Congregational Church (Old Park Church)

This church was built for the First Congregational Church in 1906, enveloping the original 1883 structure due to growth of the congregation. The renovations, including the installation of a $3,000 organ, were completed in 1907.

A second-story addition was added in 1936, designed by T. Robert Wagner, an architect from Denver.

Park Congregational Church occupied the building until 1955. The Swedish Covenant Church purchased the building in May 1955, changing their name to First Covenant Church. They remained in the building until September 1984, when it was purchased by the Foursquare Church.

The church is historically significant for its Gothic Revival/Tudor Revival style architecture. It has a steeply pitched roof characteristic of this style and intersecting gables on the north elevation. Roof features include a parapet with castellation topped by stone caps. There are several stained glass windows including a large multi-light stained glass window on the north elevation. It has decorative brick quoins on the sides, stone sills and a brick gothic arch. There is an octagonal turret with a wood top and decorative brickwork. Brick quoins adorn the corners of the central bell tower, which also has a castellated roof line.

Brief History of the Carlson House

The Carlson House is located at 1729 12th Avenue in Greeley, CO. It was built by Carl J. Carlson, a Swedish immigrant and stonemason, in 1910. It was purchased by T. C. Stilwell in 1922. He was a traveling salesman and lived in the house until 1926. Frank C. Jean, a biology professor at Colorado Teachers College, lived in the house from 1926 until 1934. Fred Noffsinger, proprietor of NLN Manufacturing Company, lived in the house from 1934-1937. Another prominent person who lived in the house was David J. Miller, a local attorney who was active in local organizations and statewide politics. He also served on the Colorado Water Conservation Board and was president of the Weld County Bar Association. The house is a Craftsman style with wood frame and wood shingle, gabled roof. It features a concrete and rock foundation and rusticated stone facing.

Brief History of the Camfield House and Family

Lottie and Daniel Camfield purchased this property in 1907 and hired Roeschlaub & Son of Denver to design the house in 1911 and 1912. Daniel lived in the house until his death in November 1914. He was a very significant citizen of Greeley, having involved himself in irrigation and downtown Greeley commerce. He was known as the “Empire Builder”. He came to Greeley in 1881 from Providence, Rhode Island, at the age of 18 and eventually began purchasing land, finally holding up to 50,000 acres. He was actively involved in the development of irrigation in the area, including the Platte Valley from Greeley to Nebraska, and his contribution was described by the Greeley Tribune as the “most marvelous victory recorded in the peaceful conquest of the great West”. His irrigation enterprises covered not only parts of Colorado, but Wyoming, Utah and New Mexico as well. He founded the town of Camfield east of Ault in 1907 and it existed until 1943.

The Camfield House, located at 814 19th Street, is a roughly rectangular, two-story brick Structure with an asphalt shingle, hipped roof. The one-story full-width porch has square posts and a central pediment matching the front gabled dormer. A brick wall surrounds the porch and wraps partially around the side of the house.

Brief History of City of Greeley Historical Preservation

The City of Greeley Historical Preservation office aims to preserve the history of buildings in the Greeley area. To do so they ensure that the characteristics that make the specific properties unique and important to the history of Greeley are preserved for future generations. They are also responsible for designating properties on the Greeley Historic Register and helping provide financial incentives for work on designated properties. They celebrated their 20th anniversary in 2015.
